Responding to odour concerns, and what's happens next.

If you have ever raised an odour concern about Redvale, there is a good chance Kees de Groot has been the person responding.

Kees is our Environmental Analyst at Redvale Landfill and Energy Park. His job is to investigate odour complaints. When a concern comes in, he doesn't stay in the office. He gets on the road, visits the area, checks conditions and works out what action is needed.

We have introduced an automated complaints system. Every odour concern is logged and sent straight to Kees, the operational team leader, and a group of managers and supervisors, so it's picked up quickly.

Our resource consent requires odour complaints to be investigated within 30 minutes during operating hours. In practice, Kees is often on site in under eight minutes.

Managing odour is part of daily operations at Redvale. Controls include daily cover on the face, seven odour suppression cannons around the site, neutralising sprays, and keeping exposed waste areas as small as possible.

Odour cannons at work at Redvale

The complaints number is 8601.

One thing we need to be clear about. We expect and accept strong feedback. That comes with operating a landfill and we take it seriously. But abusive or threatening messages sent to our staff are not acceptable.

Kees and the wider Redvale team are real people doing their jobs, often in difficult conditions. Raising concerns firmly is fine. Abusing staff is not. It slows down responses and helps no one.

Fast-track application submitted, what happens next

Since the last newsletter, we have lodged our Fast-track referral application for the proposed extension of Redvale Landfill and Energy Park.

The Ministry for the Environment has checked the application and confirmed it is complete. This means it is now formally in the system.

The next step is for the Minister for Infrastructure to decide whether the project can use the Fast-track process. To support that decision, the Ministry has invited and received high-level comments from specified agencies, including Auckland Council, Auckland Transport and local boards.

Those agencies are not deciding the project. Their role is to help the Minister decide whether it should proceed through Fast-track at all.

If it is referred, a detailed application will then be prepared and assessed by an independent expert panel, supported by the Environmental Protection Authority. The panel will review technical information, invite written comment from specific groups, decide whether more information is needed, and whether a hearing is required before making a final decision.

Fast-track is different from a standard consent process, but it still involves independent review and oversight.

What the latest testing shows

Independent environmental testing continues alongside day-to-day site management.

In December, drinking water testing was completed at Dairy Flat School. Samples were taken from the staff room, health room and hall kitchen and analysed by Hill Laboratories against New Zealand Drinking Water Standards. All samples met the standards. E. coli was not detected. Metals, nutrients and other indicators were present at very low levels. Results were consistent with October and November testing, showing no change in water quality. The water was confirmed as safe to drink, with no corrective action required.

Dust monitoring was also carried out at Richards Road and along the southern boundary of the landfill. Testing showed dust levels at the residential property were well below the New Zealand air quality standard. While dust levels were higher at the landfill boundary, they remained well below workplace exposure limits. The increase compared with November was consistent with drier, windier conditions. There was no significant adverse impact on residential air quality at the time of monitoring.

Final thought

Redvale is an engineered landfill, designed to manage waste safely. Without facilities like this, communities would face real public health risks from uncontrolled disposal, and waste would need to travel further, increasing emissions and cost.

We also have a clear responsibility to the people who work here and the neighbours who live nearby. Many of our team members have been part of Redvale since it opened in 1993, and their safety matters. We would never operate in a way that puts them, or the wider community, at risk.

Glen Jujnovich,
Regional Manager

From Redvale Roots to an Electric Future

The people who make the difference

Some people become part of a place simply by showing up, day after day, and quietly getting on with the job. At Redvale Landfill and Energy Park, John “John’o” Saunders is one of those people.

John’o has worked at Redvale since it opened in 1993. After moving to New Zealand from England, he joined the team in the early days of the site and has been there ever since. Over more than three decades, he has seen Redvale grow, adapt, and evolve, while the fundamentals of the work have remained the same: do the job properly, do it safely, and do it with care for the environment.

Today, John’o leads the gas generation work on site. His role involves managing landfill gas and leachate systems, a critical part of how Redvale protects the surrounding environment while also supporting renewable energy generation. It is highly specialised work, and John’o’s depth of experience is widely respected. He is often asked to share his knowledge with other landfill sites around the country, helping to lift standards well beyond Redvale itself.

To those who work alongside him, John’o is known for his dry sense of humour and steady, practical approach. He is someone people trust, especially when things are busy or complex. Outside of work, he is a keen fisherman who enjoys spending time on Auckland’s east and west coasts, making the most of the outdoors.

Redvale is run by people, many of whom have been part of this community for a long time. John’o is one of them. His long service reflects not only loyalty, but a genuine commitment to the site and to doing the work responsibly. His recent recognition with a Service Award at the WM New Zealand annual awards is a fitting acknowledgement of a career built on consistency, skill, and quiet dedication.

Three million electric kilometres, and the people behind them.

Earlier this year, WM New Zealand quietly passed a significant milestone: three million kilometres driven by our electric heavy vehicle fleet.

It is an impressive number, but behind it are real people and everyday work happening on local roads, including here in the wider Dairy Flat area.

WM's electric vehicle journey began in 2016. In the early years, progress was steady rather than fast. Reaching the first one million kilometres took time, with that milestone achieved in late 2022. Since then, momentum has grown. Two million kilometres followed in 2024, and earlier this year the fleet reached three million. The increasing pace tells a clear story: the technology is proving itself, and our teams are becoming more confident every day.

Today, WM operates around 60 electric vehicles across New Zealand. Most of these vehicles have been converted in-house by our own people, with mechanics, engineers, and drivers working closely together to make sure the vehicles are fit for real-world waste and recycling routes. This hands-on approach means skills are being built locally, lessons are being learned quickly, and innovation is happening right here.

These electric vehicles are not trial pieces or show models. They are part of everyday operations. They collect recycling, food scraps, and glass, haul skips, and support essential services in communities across the country. Residents may see them on the road without realising they are part of a much bigger shift toward lower-emission transport.

Just like Redvale itself, this journey is powered by people. From long-serving team members who have seen decades of change, to fleet teams helping electrify vehicles for the future, it is the combination of experience and innovation that makes progress possible.

Together, these stories reflect a simple truth: whether it is decades of steady service at a single site or millions of kilometres driven in new electric vehicles, meaningful change is built by people who show up, care about their work, and keep moving forward.

Coming Soon: DFCT 2026 Funding Applications

As many in our community will be aware, the Dairy Flat Community Trust is proudly funded through annual donations from WM New Zealand, which are specifically set aside to be reinvested back into the Dairy Flat community. These funds play an important role in supporting local people, Organisations, and initiatives, and help ensure the Trust can continue to make a meaningful difference at a grassroots level.

Each year, WM's contribution enables the Trust to offer funding that supports education, personal development, and community projects that benefit the wider Dairy Flat area. The Trustees are grateful for this ongoing support, which allows the Trust to assist those within our community who need it most.

Applications for the 2026 Dairy Flat Community Trust funding round will open on 17 July 2026 and close on 11 September 2026.

Funding will be available across three application categories:

- Organisational – supporting local groups and community-based initiatives
- Tertiary – assisting students undertaking further education or training
- Individual – providing support for personal development opportunities

The Trust would particularly like to encourage local tertiary students to apply. Tertiary funding is available to help with education and study-related costs, and this is a valuable opportunity for Dairy Flat residents who are currently studying or planning to pursue further education.

We encourage eligible community members to start thinking about their applications ahead of time. Check out the Trust's website to see if you are eligible, with full eligibility criteria, application forms, and key dates available once applications open.

Keep an eye on our website: www.dairyflatcommunitytrust.co.nz.

If you know a student, individual, or organisation within the Dairy Flat community who may benefit, please help spread the word.

The Dairy Flat Community Trust looks forward to receiving applications and continuing to support initiatives that help our community grow, connect, and thrive.

Dear readers,

Welcome to the first newsletter of 2026, written just before Waitangi Day. With one month of the year already past, what does the balance of 2026 hold for us?

There are many unknowns such as how will world events such as what is happening in Israel/Gaza, Ukraine/Russia, USA/Greenland/Venezuela/Iran, the future of the UN, WHO, the EU, etc. affect us? Adding to the political uncertainty, we are becoming more aware of increased weather events causing loss of life through fires, flooding, landslides, etc.

Here in New Zealand, we do have one bit of certainty and that is that the country will be holding general elections on 7 November. Being two days after what many call Guy Fawkes, can we expect fireworks with a massive election turnout or the normal 2 out of 3 people bothering to vote?

Looking back at some earlier 1st quarter newsletters, some have covered the summer drought (not yet evident this year and maybe not going to happen either) and others have mentioned copious rain, especially the Auckland Anniversary flooding in 2023. January is supposedly Auckland's driest month, averaging about 33mm over the month whereas we received over 100mm last month, meaning over three times as much rain as normal.

For the 1st quarter newsletter of 2025, I wrote as follows: "As readers will know, the landfill will cease taking in waste by the end of December 2028 and at recent meetings we have been trying to get a better understanding of what will happen after December 2028."

On 17 March, the Community Liaison Committee became aware that, in WM New Zealand's view, Auckland was facing a waste crisis and that there would be consultation on possible solutions, one of which could include extending the life of Redvale. Eleven months on, what is known is that Wayby Valley (which is where waste should be going when Redvale closes in 2028) is still before the Courts and that Waste Management is seeking to use the Fast Track process to get the Redvale fill extended to 2036.

Coupled with all the uncertainties listed in the opening paragraph, the closure of Redvale is now another of those uncertainties and one right here in the middle of our Dairy Flat community.

In other news, Green Road Park has a formal body known as the Friends of Green Park Society Incorporated and for first time readers, the park is a working farm covering 154Ha and has at least four well-marked walking tracks as well as a model aero club and is also used by the pony club. Dog walking is permitted, BUT, dogs must be on a leash, especially due to there being cattle, sheep and horses present. Membership of the Society is free and open to anybody interested in joining and ideally, helping to improve the park, through weed eradication, tree plantings, litter removal, etc. There is a working bee on the first Sunday afternoon of each month. Volunteers are welcome to come along, meeting in the carpark. The March date is 1 March at 4.30pm and in April, it will be the 5th at 4.00pm.

The Dairy Flat Hall is also seeking to expand its membership, which is free. Membership means notification of upcoming music events and as a member, you get membership benefits if attending functions where the committee is involved.

Take care

Warwick

Faster response to odour concerns Text: 8601

If you notice an odour from Redvale Landfill and Energy Park, there's now a simple and much faster way to let us know.

You can text 8601 with details regarding odour, and our Environmental Analyst will be notified straight away. We'll begin an investigation within 30 minutes – usually much faster. Our Investigations are more effective when given as much information as possible – location, time, character, intensity, and frequency.

This new system ensures your messages are never delayed and allows us to respond quickly every time. We'll check what's happening on site, visit the property where the odour has been reported, and work with our operations team to take any action needed.

The Redvale team work hard every day to manage Auckland's waste safely and sustainably, and odour control is a key part of this. Some of the measures in place include daily cover, odour-neutralising sprays, and keeping the exposed working face of the landfill as small as possible.

We appreciate your support as we continue to invest in systems that protect our local environment and community.
